Thank you!

Just in case you haven't looked at a calendar recently, the holiday season is upon us and that means Small Business Season is at our door. Yes, we said, "Small Business Season," because don't our small businesses deserve more than a single day?

Before the holiday lists get longer and the calendars fill up, consider who will help make your celebrations happen. The neighborhood bakery. The restaurant hosting your team lunch. The cleaner getting your home ready for guests. Supporting these businesses helps sustain local jobs and the services we rely on throughout the year. Nationally, small businesses employ 45.9% of private-sector workers, according to the SBA's Office of Advocacy. Those everyday spending decisions add up.

Small Business Season gives us eight to nine weeks to put those decisions into practice. This year's theme, "It's the thought that counts," offers a simple place to start:

think about the person receiving your gift, the business earning your purchase, and the community you're helping support.

There are many ways to support local such as a book suggested by the local bookstore employee, a cooking class for the friend who already owns every kitchen gadget, or housecleaning for a family whose greatest holiday wish is one less thing to do.

There's room for businesses across industries to participate. A few preparations this week can make the whole season easier.

1. Turn "Support Local" into Specific Suggestions

People can agree wholeheartedly with supporting local businesses and still struggle to think of what to buy. Help them connect the intention to a purchase.

Help buyers and other organizations that can help you get the word out by telling them what you offer that would make a thoughtful gift or help someone through the holidays?

Where appropriate, give them a photo, price or starting price, purchase link, and any booking or ordering deadline.

Tell customers and the chamber who you're perfect for such as:

- For the person who wants more time.
- For the family that loves doing things together.
- For the host preparing for a houseful.
- For the employee who deserves a meaningful thank-you.

Doing this can make it easy to include your business in a gift guide built around the recipient. That gives customers somewhere useful to begin.

2. Make Sure Customers Can Follow Through

A lovely photo won't help much if the purchase link is broken or nobody can find your hours.

Make sure your directory listing is updated and review links, contact information, and seasonal details. Review your website, social profiles, Google listing, booking instructions, and gift certificate information. If your chamber has a local currency program, check your information is correct. If you're not part of the program, consider joining it before the holiday rush. You will likely benefit from additional marketing opportunities.

Walk through the purchase as a customer would. Can someone quickly find the price? Do they know how to book? Is the ordering deadline obvious? Does a gift certificate require an in-person visit?

The SBA's holiday preparation guidance recommends checking websites, preparing marketing in advance, and communicating with customers. Don't forget people who have bought from you in the past. They're more likely to do it again. Reach out to them and offer them a reason to return early in the holiday season.

Make buying locally easy enough to fit into an already crowded day.

3. Plan for the Full Season

Small Business Season is both a marathon and a sprint. The sprint is getting ready now. The marathon is staying visible and top of mind throughout November and December (and even early January as people use their gift cards and money gifts).

Sketch a simple weekly calendar this week. Early messages might focus on custom orders and services that require advance booking. Later weeks can feature hosting help, employee appreciation, experiences, and gifts available close to the holiday. Last-minute customers are highly suggestable and they want help.

Each week needs a useful angle tailored to how you can help, rather than another version of "remember to support local."

Prepare a handful of photos and messages that fit those themes. If you're a pet sitter, you might remind people that holiday reservations fill up. Book early. This also creates a fear of missing out. No one wants to think they can't go to Grandma's because pup doesn't have a place to stay.

If you're a printer, you could share the deadline for personalized gifts. A restaurant could introduce take-home options for the evening everyone arrives. Think of how your business can fit into your customer's lives: gifts, ease, or even solutions you provide.

Schedule what you can now, leaving room for timely updates.

4. Put Thoughtful Partnerships to Work

A few well-matched businesses can make your customers' lives easier. A bookstore and coffee shop could suggest an afternoon of reading and relaxing. A cleaner and florist could help customers prepare for company. A photographer and framing business could introduce a gift customers might otherwise struggle to coordinate.

The chamber can make introductions. Just tell us who you want to meet.

5. Give Everyone a Way to Participate

Everyone can get involved in shopping local even if they don't have money to spend. Help them do so. Explain why reviews are so important and make it easy for customers to recommend your business to a friend, share an accurate event announcement, or leave an honest review of a purchase or service they've experienced.

You can also do your part to support local by considering local vendors for catering, printing, gifts, and year-end needs.

Thank customers for referrals and share posts about your business. Your customers will love the uptick in their audience views and feel appreciated.

It’s the Thought That Counts but Action Matters Too

“It’s the thought that counts” asks us to pause before we spend or recommend. Who could help us find something meaningful? Who nearby offers the service we need? Which local business have we been meaning to try?

Start with one name on your gift list or one task on your holiday calendar. Look locally for the answer. Then give that business a chance to earn the next purchase.

While you’re at it, give some thought to what you can give your customers: solutions, great gifts, a fun experience. And then tell them how you do it.

2027 Custer Area Chamber of Commerce Business and Membership Directory

Your Custer Area Chamber of Commerce & Visitors Bureau is producing the 2027 Chamber Business and Membership Directory with helpful features for chamber members, Custer visitors and potential residents. This beautiful, full-color directory will include great photography, a community profile, a calendar of special events, accommodations, attractions, restaurant listings and a complete categorical directory of all chamber members in full magazine-size layout.

We'll print 15,000 copies of this directory, which will be distributed to prospective visitors and residents who call our community seeking information about traveling to the region, or relocating their home or business to the Custer area. In addition, thousands of copies will be distributed at our Visitor Information Center and at chamber businesses such as local motels, restaurants and campgrounds. This will be our primary economic development and business recruitment piece!

If you'd like to distribute your message to thousands of potential customers who will visit Custer or are inquiring about living here, just give the folks at Southern Hills Publishing a call at 605-673-2217. Don't miss this opportunity. Thanks for your continued support.

Kids train like nature's greatest ninjas while mastering essential outdoor and naturalist skills! In this hands-on, 6 week adventure, kids build balance, physical strength, and sensory awareness as they learn to move silently through the forest like a fox, stalk like a bobcat, and spot hidden wildlife most people walk right past. Every session is a new challenge and lesson about how nature is full of ninja warriors that use the stealth and skills of a ninja to survive.

Beyond physical challenges, students cultivate real academic and scientific habits: developing field journaling techniques, learning spatial mapping, practicing quiet observation in dedicated "Sit Spots," and analyzing the hidden survival strategies of regional wildlife.

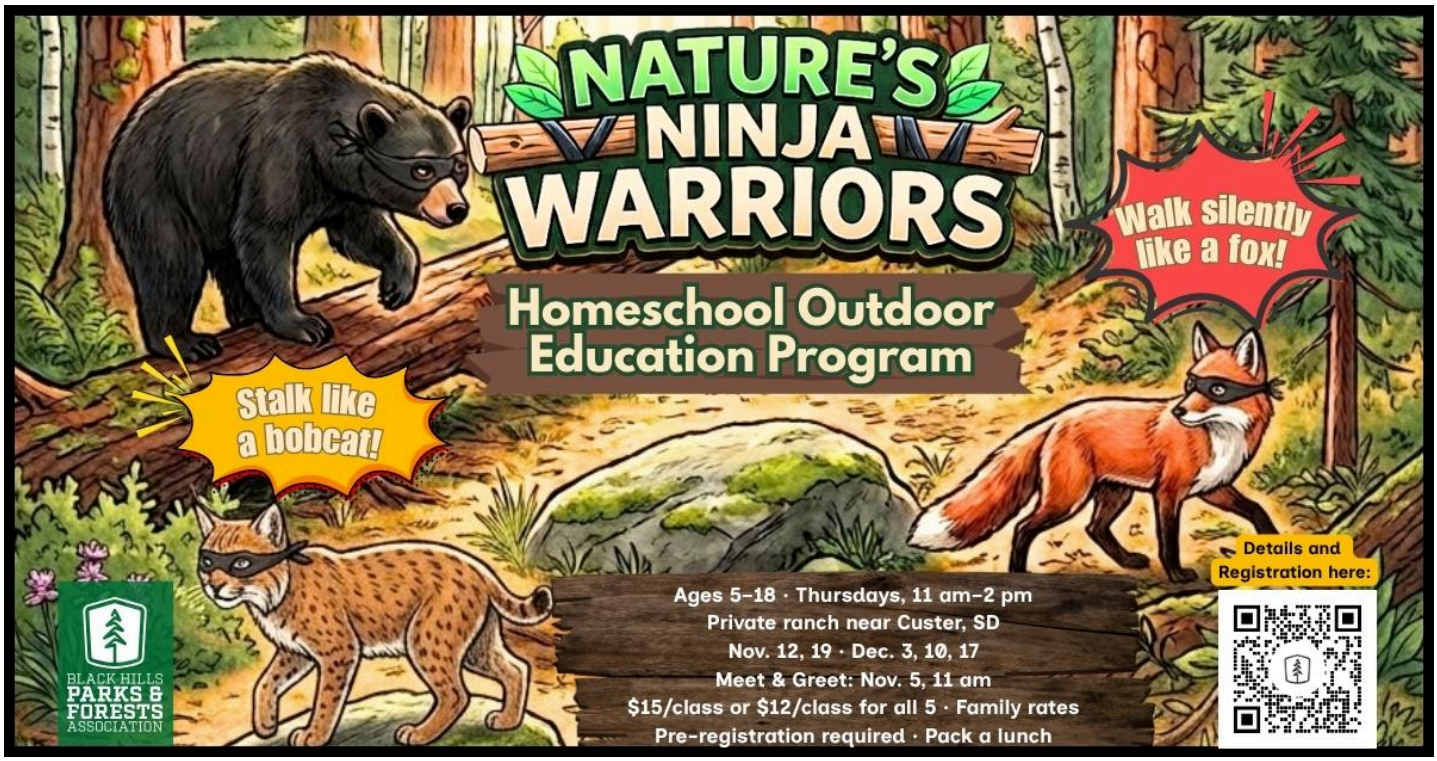

With a perfect balance of structured learning time for real world biology, naturalist skills, and unstructured safe forest exploration, your child will gain confidence, self-discipline, and a deep, active relationship with the natural world.

The dates and times for this program are, Thursdays from 11am till 2pm on November 12th, 19th, (One week off for Thanksgiving break is here) and December 3rd, 10th, and 17th. Mentors Feeling More Engaged at Home or Work

LITTLE WAVES LIFELONG RIPPLES

"Little Waves, Lifelong Ripples" reminds us that even the smallest acts of kindness, encouragement, and consistency in mentoring can create a lasting impact. Every meeting, conversation, or shared laugh might feel like a small wave in the moment, but those moments add up, shaping a young person's confidence, goals, and sense of belonging for years to come. It's a reminder that mentorship doesn't just change one day, it can change a lifetime.

OCTOBER 2026
SDVISIT.COM

Greetings, Tourism Friends!

As I write this message, I'm looking out my window to see maple trees blazing red against a blue sky, beautiful, yellow ash tree leaves floating to the ground in a brisk wind, and stunning sumac bushes with orange and fiery red leaves showing off their very best autumn wardrobe. The fall colors this year are extraordinary. I was able to get to Sica Hollow State Park near Sisseton recently to take in the breathtaking fall foliage there (if you've never been, put it on your bucket list). What an amazing time of the year in our state.

There are also hunters out in our golden fields, dressed in blaze orange, shouting "Rooster!", and engaging in a South Dakota tradition that is unmatched anywhere in the world. For those participating in Rooster Rush 2026 and extending an extra warm welcome to our hunters, thank you!

Like you, as we continue with our shoulder season work and look to the winter, we have a lot going on. Here are some quick highlights for you:

1. The planning pace is getting even faster for the 2027 Governor's Conference on Tourism. It's going to be another GREAT one! The conference website is live — www.SouthDakotaTourismConference.com — so be sure to register, check out sessions & speakers, and get your hotel rooms booked. Putting on what has become one of the premier state tourism conferences in the country would not be possible without your generous support. We'd love to have you become a sponsor, so please check out these sponsor & exhibitor opportunities. You can also reach out to Shawntae Moran on our team with questions about sponsorships or exhibitor booths.
2. Also, don't forget to nominate worthy industry members for one of the prestigious Tourism Awards. Information about the awards, as well as nomination forms, can be found at this link. The nomination deadline is coming up quickly on Tuesday, November 17, 2026.
3. We recently sent an email asking for your help to complete a survey about our Great Place Program. We need your input on what is working, what isn't, and what can be improved. We appreciate the help. Here is the survey. Please contact Bailey Tysdal with any questions.

4. Read more below about our fall marketing campaign as well as our latest Travel Trends & Insights about consumer sentiment and behavior.

When you receive this email, I'll be in Toronto, Canada, participating in a Brand USA Executive Roundtable with leading Canadian travel & tourism companies about ways we can reignite Canadian travel to the U.S. I'm eager to share my thoughts and honored to be one of a handful of travel & tourism leaders from our country to participate in this important forum.

Please reach out anytime the team and I can be of any assistance to you. We'll be attending the Black Hills & Badlands and Glacial Lakes & Prairies annual meetings this week as well as the Southeast South Dakota Tourism Association's board meeting. We hope to see many of you at these events. Thank you for all your support, friends! Happy Halloween!

All our best,
Jim and Team

Clue* | June 6 - 20 2027

It's a dark and stormy night, and our cast of oddball characters have been invited to a very unusual dinner party. Each guest has an alias, the butler offers a variety of weapons, and the host is, well, dead.

Guys and Dolls* | June 27 - July 11, 2027

Guys and Dolls takes us from the bustle of Times Square to the dance clubs of Havana, to the sewers of New York City, as it shows the lengths a guy will go to when he truly falls in love with a "doll."

Disaster!* | July 18 - August 1, 2027

Disaster! pays homage to the 70s, an era of bell-bottoms, platform shoes, boogie dancing and…disaster movies. It's 1979, and New York's best-dressed are queueing up to board The Barracuda, a new floating casino and discotheque.

Morning View Drive* | August 8 - 14, 2027

An elderly couple must defend their home against two bungling burglars. When two con men scheme to rob their home, chaos ensues–think Home Alone for seniors!

Theatre 605 Names Deb Kuehn and BankWest 2026 Philanthropists of the Year

Awards presented at the "Party in Portugal" themed Black, White, & Red Gala, honoring a lifelong Playhouse patron and a corporate partner whose ties date to the theatre's founding

For Immediate Release

SOUTH DAKOTA — Theatre 605 honored longtime patron and board member Deb Kuehn from Rapid City as its 2026 Philanthropist of the Year at the Black, White, & Red Gala on Oct. 10. The organization also presented its first Corporate Philanthropist of the Year award to BankWest, a partner whose support reaches back to the theatre's founding as Black Hills Playhouse 81 years ago.

Deb Kuehn, 2026 Philanthropist of the Year

Kuehn, a certified neonatal and family nurse practitioner at Monument Rapid City Hospital, serves on the Theatre 605 board's finance and gala committees. She grew up with the Black Hills Playhouse. Her father covered it for the Rapid City Journal, and the Sunday matinee musical was a family tradition. Years later, she brought her mother, then in her 90s, out to see plays.

Those who work with her describe a donor who notices what the theatre needs and quietly takes care of it. "Deb is primarily an extraordinary caregiver who sees a need and thinks about how she can fill it," said Linda Anderson, Executive Director, Theatre 605.

In accepting the award, Kuehn recalled the first time she gave through a matching gift, at the suggestion of Theatre 605's Development Director Jeff Kingsbury, and the joy she felt as she watched her contribution multiply. She also remembered the summer COVID closed the theatre while preseason costs still had to be paid. She said she gives because the theatre reaches people at every stage, from summer camp to the all-inclusive programs that welcome artists with developmental and physical disabilities.

"I give because I believe storytelling is not a luxury; it is a necessity," Kuehn said. "And most importantly, I give so that the next generation, regardless of their background, can walk through the doors and see their own stories brought to life."

BankWest, 2026 Corporate Philanthropist of the Year

BankWest's ties to the theatre began in the 1940s, when Charles Burke II, father of the bank's current COO, was working in Custer State Park as a University of South Dakota intern. He came across Camp Lodge, an abandoned Civilian Conservation Corps camp, and it was proposed as a home for the new Black Hills Playhouse. Gov. Sharpe gave his approval.

“Enriching through the arts is enriching culture,” said Robert Burke, Chief Operations Officer, BankWest. “Culture is the glue that keeps us together, and it inspires imagination and creativity which then enriches our community.”

Among the bank’s earliest gifts was the investment in sound and lighting equipment for the theatre’s touring program, then called Dakota Players, which carried productions across the state. BankWest has since supported capital projects and maintenance needs, and it is the exclusive sponsor of Kids Go Free Nights, which give families a way to bring children to live theatre at no cost.

“When I think of BankWest, I think of gratitude,” said Linda Anderson, Executive Director, Theatre 605. “They’ve been there for us through the decades, and we couldn’t be more grateful.”

SBA Relief Available to Oglala Sioux Tribe Businesses, Private Nonprofits, and Residents Affected by Adverse Weather

Low-interest disaster loans now available

WASHINGTON — In response to a Presidential disaster declaration issued Sept. 1, the U.S. Small Business Administration announced the availability of low-interest federal disaster loans to businesses, private nonprofit organizations, and residents affected by severe storms, straight-line winds, and flooding occurring June 2 – 4.

The disaster declaration covers the Oglala Sioux Tribe, which is eligible for both physical damage and Economic Injury Disaster Loans from SBA. Small businesses and most private nonprofit organizations in the adjacent South Dakota counties of Bennett, Custer, Fall River, Jackson, Mellette, Oglala Lakota, Pennington, and Todd, and the Nebraska counties of Cherry, Dawes, and Sheridan are eligible to apply for economic injury loans.

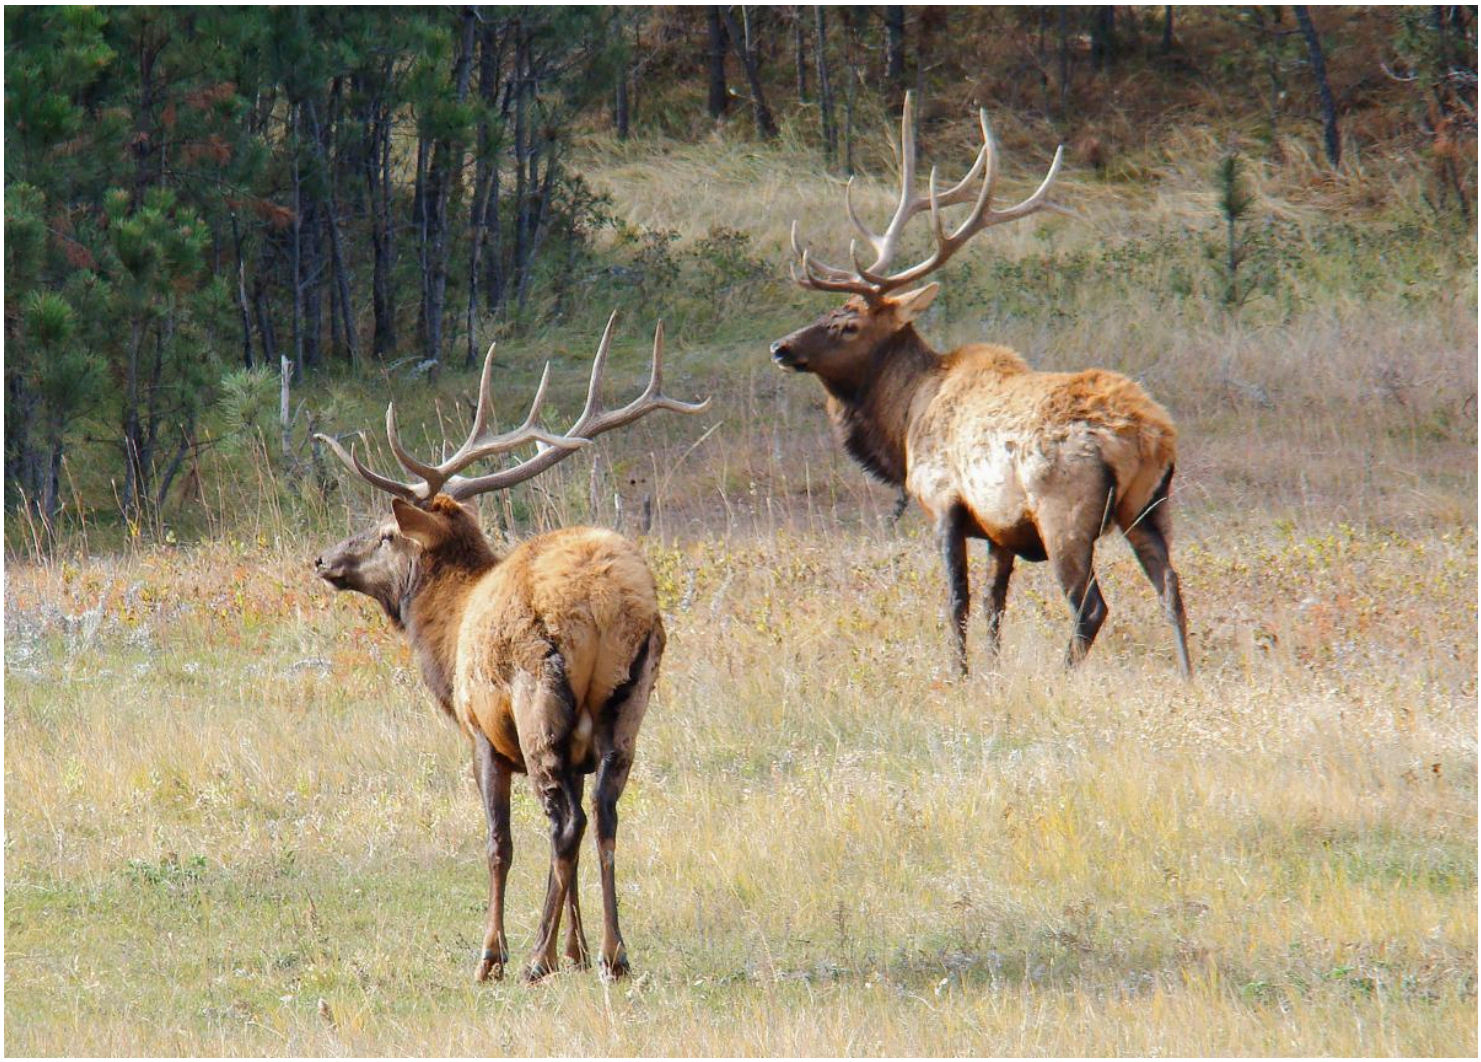

Businesses and nonprofits are eligible to apply for physical damage loans and may borrow up to $2 million to repair or replace disaster-damaged or destroyed real estate, machinery, and equipment, inventory, and other business assets.

Homeowners and renters are eligible to apply for home and personal property loans and may borrow up to $100,000 to replace or repair personal property, such as clothing, furniture, cars, and appliances. Homeowners may apply for up to $500,000 to replace or repair their primary residence.

Applicants may also be eligible for a loan increase of up to 20% of their verified physical damage, for mitigation purposes. Eligible mitigation improvements may include strengthening structures to protect against high wind damage, upgrading to wind rated garage doors, installing a safe room or storm shelter, elevating flood prone structures, adding a sump pump, or French drains to help reduce damage from future storms and flooding.

The SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loan program is available to eligible small businesses, small agricultural cooperatives, and private nonprofit organizations — including faith-based organizations — impacted by financial losses directly related to this disaster. The SBA is unable to provide disaster loans to agricultural producers, farmers, or ranchers, except for aquaculture enterprises.

Economic Injury Disaster Loans are for working capital needs caused by the disaster and are available even if the business or private nonprofit did not suffer any physical damage. The HOT SPRINGS, SD – Wind Cave National Park will offer ranger-led elk bugling programs on select evenings in September and October in addition to daily cave tours.

The Rocky Mountain elk's high-pitched whistle heralds the arrival of fall and the elk's mating season. Participants should bring a flashlight, a camp chair or blanket to sit on, and dress warmly.
