CUSTER CONNECTIONS

How to get more Love

FOR YOUR BUSINESS ON SOCIAL MEDIA

Social media is becoming more and more frustrating, right? If you have used it to connect with your audience for ten years or so, you undoubtedly have seen crazy changes in your reach. If you're new to the social media for business scene, reaching 2% of your audience probably feels pretty normal.

But if you're not reaching your audience, how are they going to know who you are and all the wonderful things your business can bring them?

When it comes to building a loyal following, there are several things you can do. Ultimately, reach is still dependent on the platform's algorithm, but every social media channel claims to respond to value. To reach more people, you need them to see you as providing valuable content they want to interact with. Here's how you can start doing that.

Get Your Business in Good Social Media Shape

Before we get into strategy and posting ideas, it's important to get your social media accounts in good shape. Make sure your profile is complete, up to date, and visually appealing. Use a high-quality profile picture and cover image. If you have a profile you are no longer using, don't just leave it languishing. Add a few posts to it about where you are posting now. An image post or funny video can help people who find you on one platform, locate you on another.

Use analytics tools to understand where you are now. Identify what types of content resonate most with your audience. Check when they are most active. Use that to influence your posting content and scheduling. As you change your posting, track your progress to see what's working.

Finally, keep up with the latest social media best practices and algorithm changes. They are always ~~evolving~~ changing. Now, let's talk about content.

Start with a Strong Content Strategy

We all know stories about how a video went viral, but for business you need to develop a strong and consistent strategy that revolves around dependable and valuable content. If something goes viral, awesome. But don't count on it as part of your content strategy any more than you would see buying a lottery ticket every week as a way to fund retirement.

When creating a social media content strategy for business, you want:

- High-Quality Content. The foundation of your social media presence is compelling and valuable content. Post images, videos (this is a must), and text that resonate with your target audience.
- Consistency: Develop a content calendar to help plan and schedule your posts. Post regularly to stay top-of-mind with your audience. Consistency is key to becoming top of mind. Sometimes consistency can even trump value in the short term. For instance, there was an author on TikTok who created some of the most boring videos I have ever seen—speaking in a monotone about the details of everything she did every morning. She posted with the regularity that some people reach for their morning coffee. Darn if she didn't grow a massive following on consistency alone reach for their morning coffee. Damn if she didn't grow a massive following on consistency alone. Every morning, there she was. And in the same way you might find yourself staring out the window in a daze while you make coffee, I watched her videos.

- Variety: Mix up your content formats to keep things interesting. Try using images, videos, carousels, live streams, stories, and polls. But...keep to your branding so that people will know it's you immediately.
- Value: Offer educational, entertaining, or inspirational content that provides value to your followers.

Engage

The algorithms base their determination of valuable content on what people are interacting with. That means you must motivate them to go from a passive state of watching (or reading) to an active pursuit of commenting. That's not always easy, but here are some best practices you can implement:

- Respond to Comments and Messages as soon as possible. Show you value your commenter's interaction. When appropriate, ask them questions in the comments. This will help continue the conversation. Speaking of...
- Ask Questions and Run Polls: Encourage conversations and participation by asking questions and conducting polls. Stickers are an engaging way to do this on Stories.
- Use Interactive Features: Utilize features like live streams, Stories, and Q&As to connect with your followers in real-time. Facebook, for one, notifies your followers when you go live.
- Community Building: Foster a sense of community by sharing user-generated content. If someone posts a picture of your products or a review, share it and thank them.

Get More Views

Again, the algorithm has a lot to do with how many people see your content. Just because you post does not mean it will be seen. Recently, Instagram seems to be showing more content to non-followers than followers. Here are ways you can build on that:

- Cross-Promotion. Promote your social media accounts on your website, email signature, newsletter, and other marketing materials. Make sure everyone who does business with you (or is researching your business) knows where to find you on social media.
- Hashtags. Use relevant hashtags to help people discover your content. Research popular and trending hashtags in your industry and community. Speaking of trending, it's okay to try a little...
- Bandwagoning. Jumping on the bandwagon (or posting about something that's trending or using trending music) is a good way to get new eyes on your content. It may feel a little insincere at first and out of line with your business, but if you do it in a fun way, it can show a lighter side of your personality and help people feel more connected to you.
- Collaborations. Partner with influencers or other businesses in your niche or town to reach a wider audience. Do interviews, videos, social media posting battles, and other collaborations to get attention. Talk to your chamber. They may be able to help introduce you to the perfect business partner. Check out this "sign war," which made it out of the social media trenches and onto a local TV station.

Building a loyal following takes time and effort. Be patient, consistent, and focused on providing value to your audience, and you'll see your interactions grow over time.

Please take note of the following message from Gena Keller:

Food insecurity affects anywhere from 14.8 percent up to 48 percent of households across South Dakota. This reality has a significant impact on many families in our community, calling for us to come together and take action. In my first year of running Hounds, Pugs, and Hugs, a beloved dog and animal daycare, I have been blessed by the support and kindness of this community. Throughout the past year, several fundraising events have been held to benefit our veterans, from Midwest Honor Flight and Soldiers' Angels, to providing gifts for our veterans at the Michael J. Fitzmaurice Veterans Home in Hot Springs.

As Veterans Day approaches, we have another opportunity to unite and extend our support, not only for our veterans but also for those struggling with food insecurity. With food insecurity reaching higher levels than in previous years, it is important for us to come together and levels, there is an urgent need to help those facing this challenge. Therefore, I am calling on each of you to help stock the shelves of The Storehouse, located at 66 Centennial Drive, right here in Custer. The Storehouse provides essential food supplies to many families in our area, and your contributions can make a significant difference.

If you are interested in making a non-perishable donation, blue tote bags are available from the following businesses: The Custer Chamber of Commerce, The Custer County Chronicle, Vector Design Print & Tech, and from me. By filling these blue tote bags with food items, you will be directly helping to alleviate the burden of food insecurity for families in our community. Together, we can make a profound impact. Let us rally our efforts, just as we have for our veterans, and ensure that no family in Custer has to go hungry. Your generosity and compassion will help lift the burden for those in need, and there is no better time than now to show our support. Thank you for standing and uniting as we prepare to honor our veterans and uplift our community.

Please have your donations dropped off by October 5th, 2024. If you have any questions, please contact me at 605-880-0655.

SPEAK Network Invites the Public to a Four-Week-Long Positive Self-Discovery Class Series This October

For Immediate Release

Rapid City, SD. — SPEAK Network invites anyone interested in building up their self-resilience to attend the Positive Self-Discovery Series—a four-week class series starting October 3, 2024. The Positive Self-Discovery series is designed to help people become more confident in themselves and build resiliency. The SPEAK Network believes the first line of defense can be learning to rely on our own strengths and learning tools to help us through difficult situations.

During this weekly class series, attendees will have the opportunity to learn: How to recognize and cultivate their personal strengths, ways to improve self-regulation, as well as how to resolve conflict, both internally and with others. “We are excited to bring this series back this fall because we believe this class really helps participants learn to not only feel stronger in their own right but also understand resources and techniques available to them in times of need,” said Tamara Keefner

This four-week class series is well suited for anyone interested in learning personal techniques that can help both in a crisis and in day-to-day life.

Class size is limited, so reserve your space soon! To learn more about this class series and to register, visit the SPEAK Network website.
